UNION STOCKYARDS, INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 6.- For the first time recently the receipts of hogs to-day were about up to expectations and gave buyers an opportunity to dictate prices. Consequently the market was lower and there was hardly as much animation in the trade as there has been the past few days. For some time dealers have been expecting that the high prices | here would increase the supplies materially. So the action of the market to-day was not surprising. There was only a fair demand from shippers at the start, but packers who did not get many of the hogs yesterday intimated that they would be liberal buyers at a reasonable decline in prices, and rather early in the day the market was as active as the competition would justify. In a general way the early market was fully 10c lower than yesterday, and occasionally sales of mixed hogs were reported around 15c lower. Trains were slow in arriving and a number of consignments came in late. The closing market was a little irregular, but in a general way not perceptibly different from the opening. A few late shipping orders were responsible for occasional sales at possibly a shade stronger prices, but the conditions did not warrant any advance. About the usual clearance was finally made. The extreme range in sales was from $4.60@5. The bulk of the supply sold at $4.80@4.95. Quotations: Common to fair light weights..... 4.60014.65

was not large, and with the request for this class of cattle from practically all buyers, there was another active market at fully steady prices, but no improvement whatever over those prevailing esterday. In fact, a few salesmen believed that uvers were a little more particular in making their selections to-day than they have been, and this, of course, would indicate that a weaker feeling was developing. The supply of all kinds of steers was fully as large as needed, and this department was characterized by rather slow trade. It was evident at the start that buyers were inclined to want their supplies at lower prices, and with salesmen trying hard to mainain steady prices, there of course, could not be an active market. Finally sales of the cattle that were nearest to the standard in quality and condition were sold at about yesterday's prices. But generally the market was a trifle weaker, if not a shade lower on the cattle that were not fully as good as desired. The bull market did not show any quotable change and the calf market opened steady, but later weakened, and some of the closing sales were possibly 25c lower. The demand for all kinds of feeders continues moderate, but thus far this week there has not been much change in prices. Quotations:

There is greater difficulty. however, in getting cars to go south than to go north, which may divert a greater share of the business to Chicago, Similar complaints come from a few stations in Iowa, where country lievators have a good deal of corn, but no means of shipping it.

The stocks of wheat at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago in the country elevators pretty well represent the spring wheat position each year, These stocks now aggregate 22,371,740 bu. In January, 1903, they were 32,484,000 bu; in January, sellers have been caught short, and there was a 44,091,000 bu and in January, 1900, they aggregated 56,281,000 bu. The figures show how small the supplies are, compared with any other year in the past five. There is also the question of relative quality. A larger portion than usual of the present stock of wheat is low grade spring and winter. The figures are smaller this year and the quality lower. They illustrate what the Northwest man refers to when he talks small wheat supplies.

"I expect wheat to sell at $1 a bu irrespective of what Armour does and without any regard to the war possibilities," says Henry L. Little, the flour man, of Minneapolis. "Our wheat receipts The last Roumanian corn crop is officially esti- ally do. They are coming just as fast as the mated at 78,000,000 bu, against 60,000,000 bu in 1902 | railroad can bring them and they would come just about as fast if we had grown only about 100,000,000 bu up there. But we know the purchases in the country are small and we do not believe there will be any Northwestern wheat to not good. The stocks of wheat are small, and the stocks of good wheat are very light. The flour situation is strong. We have had our boliday fullness, as we always have after the close of navigation and just after buyers have stocked up with cheap freights. But the demand is comtoss up yesterday on the whole list. Wheat | ing in again, and the mills will all be running stronger next week. In a broad way the situation is strong, and I expect time to develop it."

Of the export wheat situation a Chicago shipper says: "The export demand for wheat keeps has been elready more than made up by a decrease of 40,000,000 bu in exports. There is no assurance that war in the far Pacific would result in an increased demand for American wheat and conditions existed in the corn market, only the | war scare would have the disadvantage of startsition in the wheat market might be one on the fence, the price looks high enough. The big line crease. Exporters bid 1gc better yesterday than | will be for sale some day, and the trader who scalping profits, and possibly more."

> Chicago grain shippers are agitating the appointment of grain experts to inspect contract shipments of wheat and corn. Says the Tribune: "Some of the grain shippers are agitating a procosal to have a committee of three grain experts appointed at a fixed salary of $5,000 a year, suffiient to secure the services of good men, to pass on shipments of contract grain from store, so as
